

DISCOVER BIBLE SCHOOLS

The Discover Bible Schools programme is operated by the Adventist Discovery Centre (ADC). It is a scheme designed to assist the members or local congregation to make use of the ADC correspondence lessons in local evangelistic witness. It is a co-operative ministry in which the ADC partners with local church members to achieve mutual goals.

In order to begin a Discover Bible School, the ADC requires a formal registration approved by the Church Board and/or Pastor. The DBS programme is part of the ministry of the ADC and should not be perceived as a competitor to the regular ADC Correspondence method.

How it works:

The church works through a DBS Sponsor who liaises between the church and the ADC. Supplies of lessons may be purchased from the ADC at FULL cost. A price list of our resources is available by contacting us (details below).

All marking and maintaining of local records is the responsibility of the church. The ADC will issue student numbers, maintain its own records and issue certificates upon a student completing a course.

A resource starter pack will be issued upon receipt of the church registration form and ADC staff will be available to assist you in setting up your DBS, provide training, advice and answer your questions.
